I'm definitely not a fan of griefing, I just hope it makes for more PvP in NG and a red vs blue thing.

When you are officially diagnosed as hypothyroid by the NHS, you are prescribed levothyroxine.

But, are the current policies appropriate to create a close loop society in the EU? How can the zero waste concept contribute to this aim?

We did rehab, giving so many second chances it's ridiculous.